Wtf!??

WHAT HAVE YOU DONE IN YOUR LIFE?

DIDN'T YOU READ MY TWEETS?

Why should you
consider Twitter?

Some reasons:

- Collaboration
- PD
- Teacher Voice
- Lesson Ideas

THE LAST JUDGEMENT - PART 9

SO TWITTER ISN'T

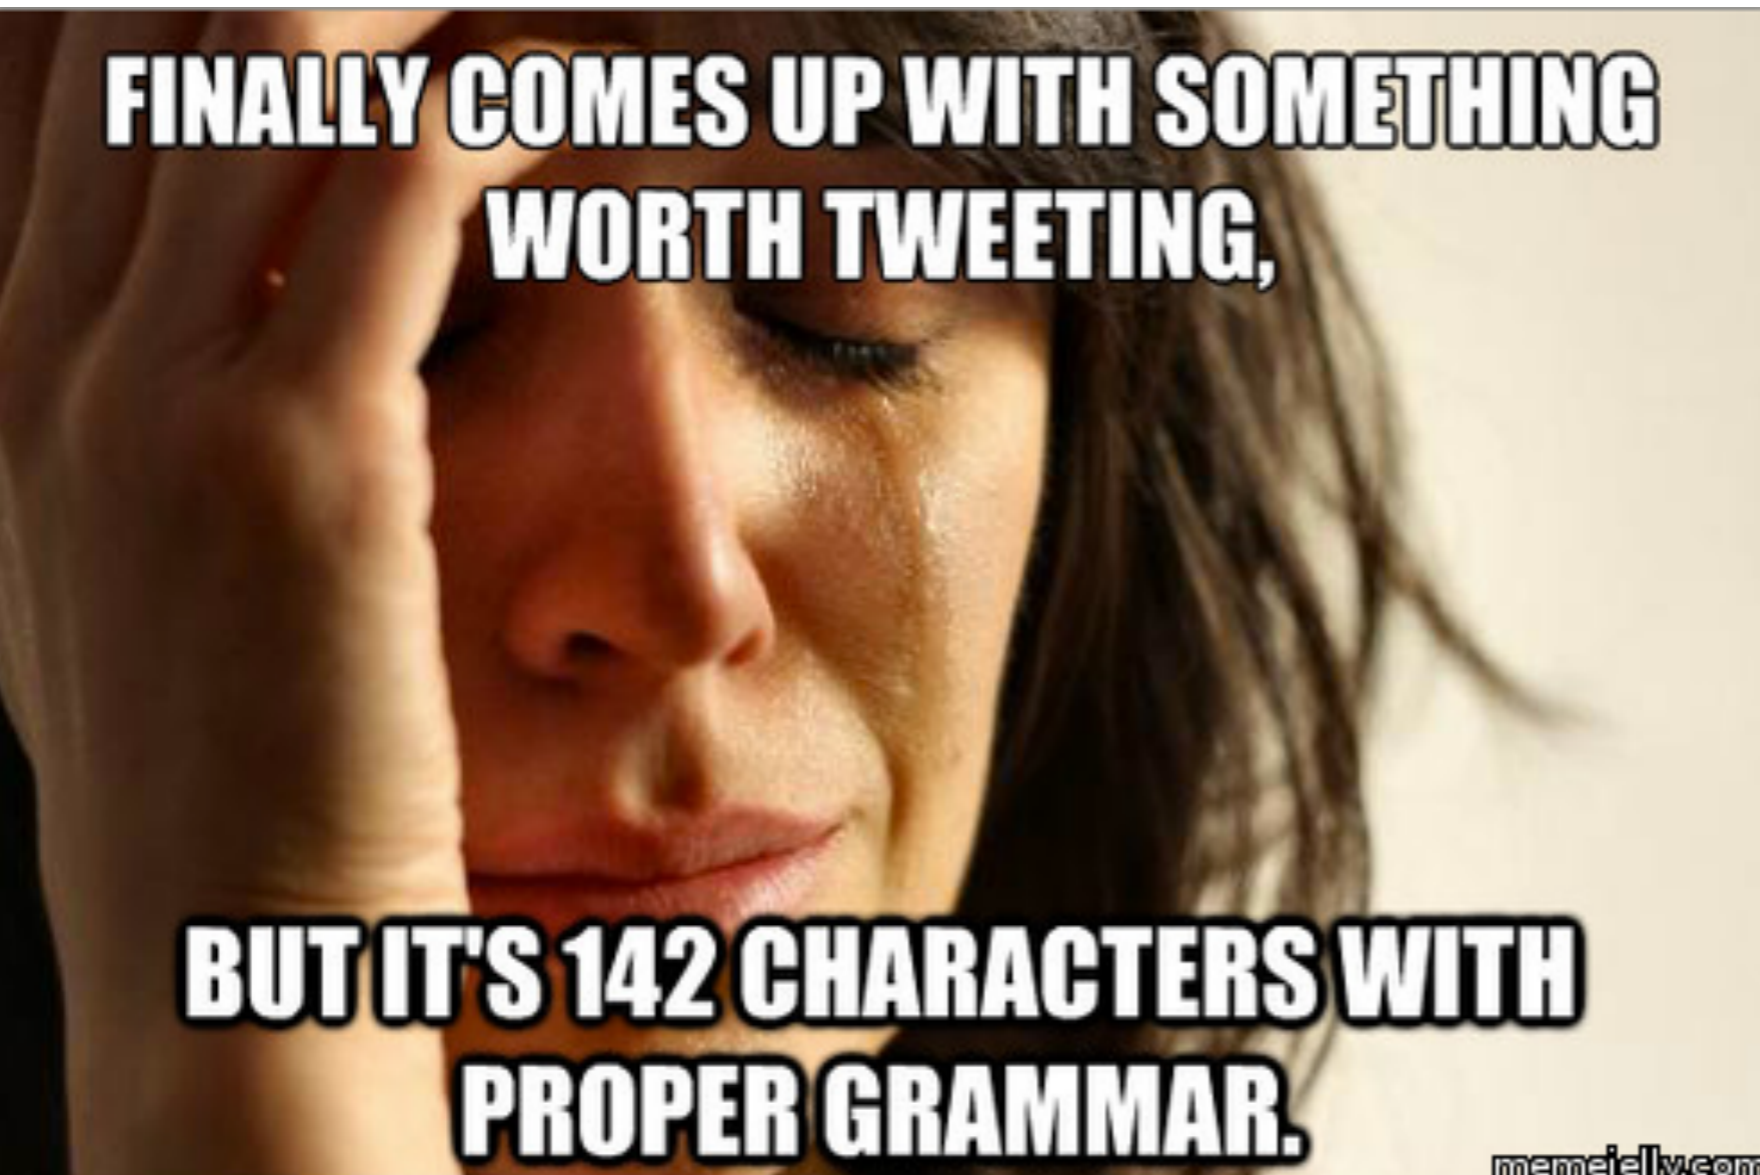

A BIRD WATCHING SITE?

What is Twitter?

It's a microblogging website

You have 140 Characters to use - including spaces and punctuation

I USED THE “#” IN FRONT OF EVERYTHING

Hashtags tie
together tweets
based on what is directly behind the
#

Twitter for Beginners

How to Twitter Infographic

In May of 2009 I signed on Twitter. I did not get started until August 2009. I first looked for anything to do with education. I stumbled on #edchat. I lurked there until I figured out how to take part. I still cannot believe I am now a part of that great #edchat team

I started following some educators who shared some interesting educational tweets like #coolcatteacher and #web20classroom.

My Suggestions

1 - Choose a short Twitter name that captures who you are. Remember you are limited to 140 characters unless you TweetLonger. I wanted cybraryman but someone beat me to it. Alas, I became @cybraryman1 It is probably a good idea to use your name.

2. Use a picture of yourself. When you attend meetings people will immediately recognize you.

#Schools must get better
Here's some ideas:
ipad4schools.org via @iPadWells

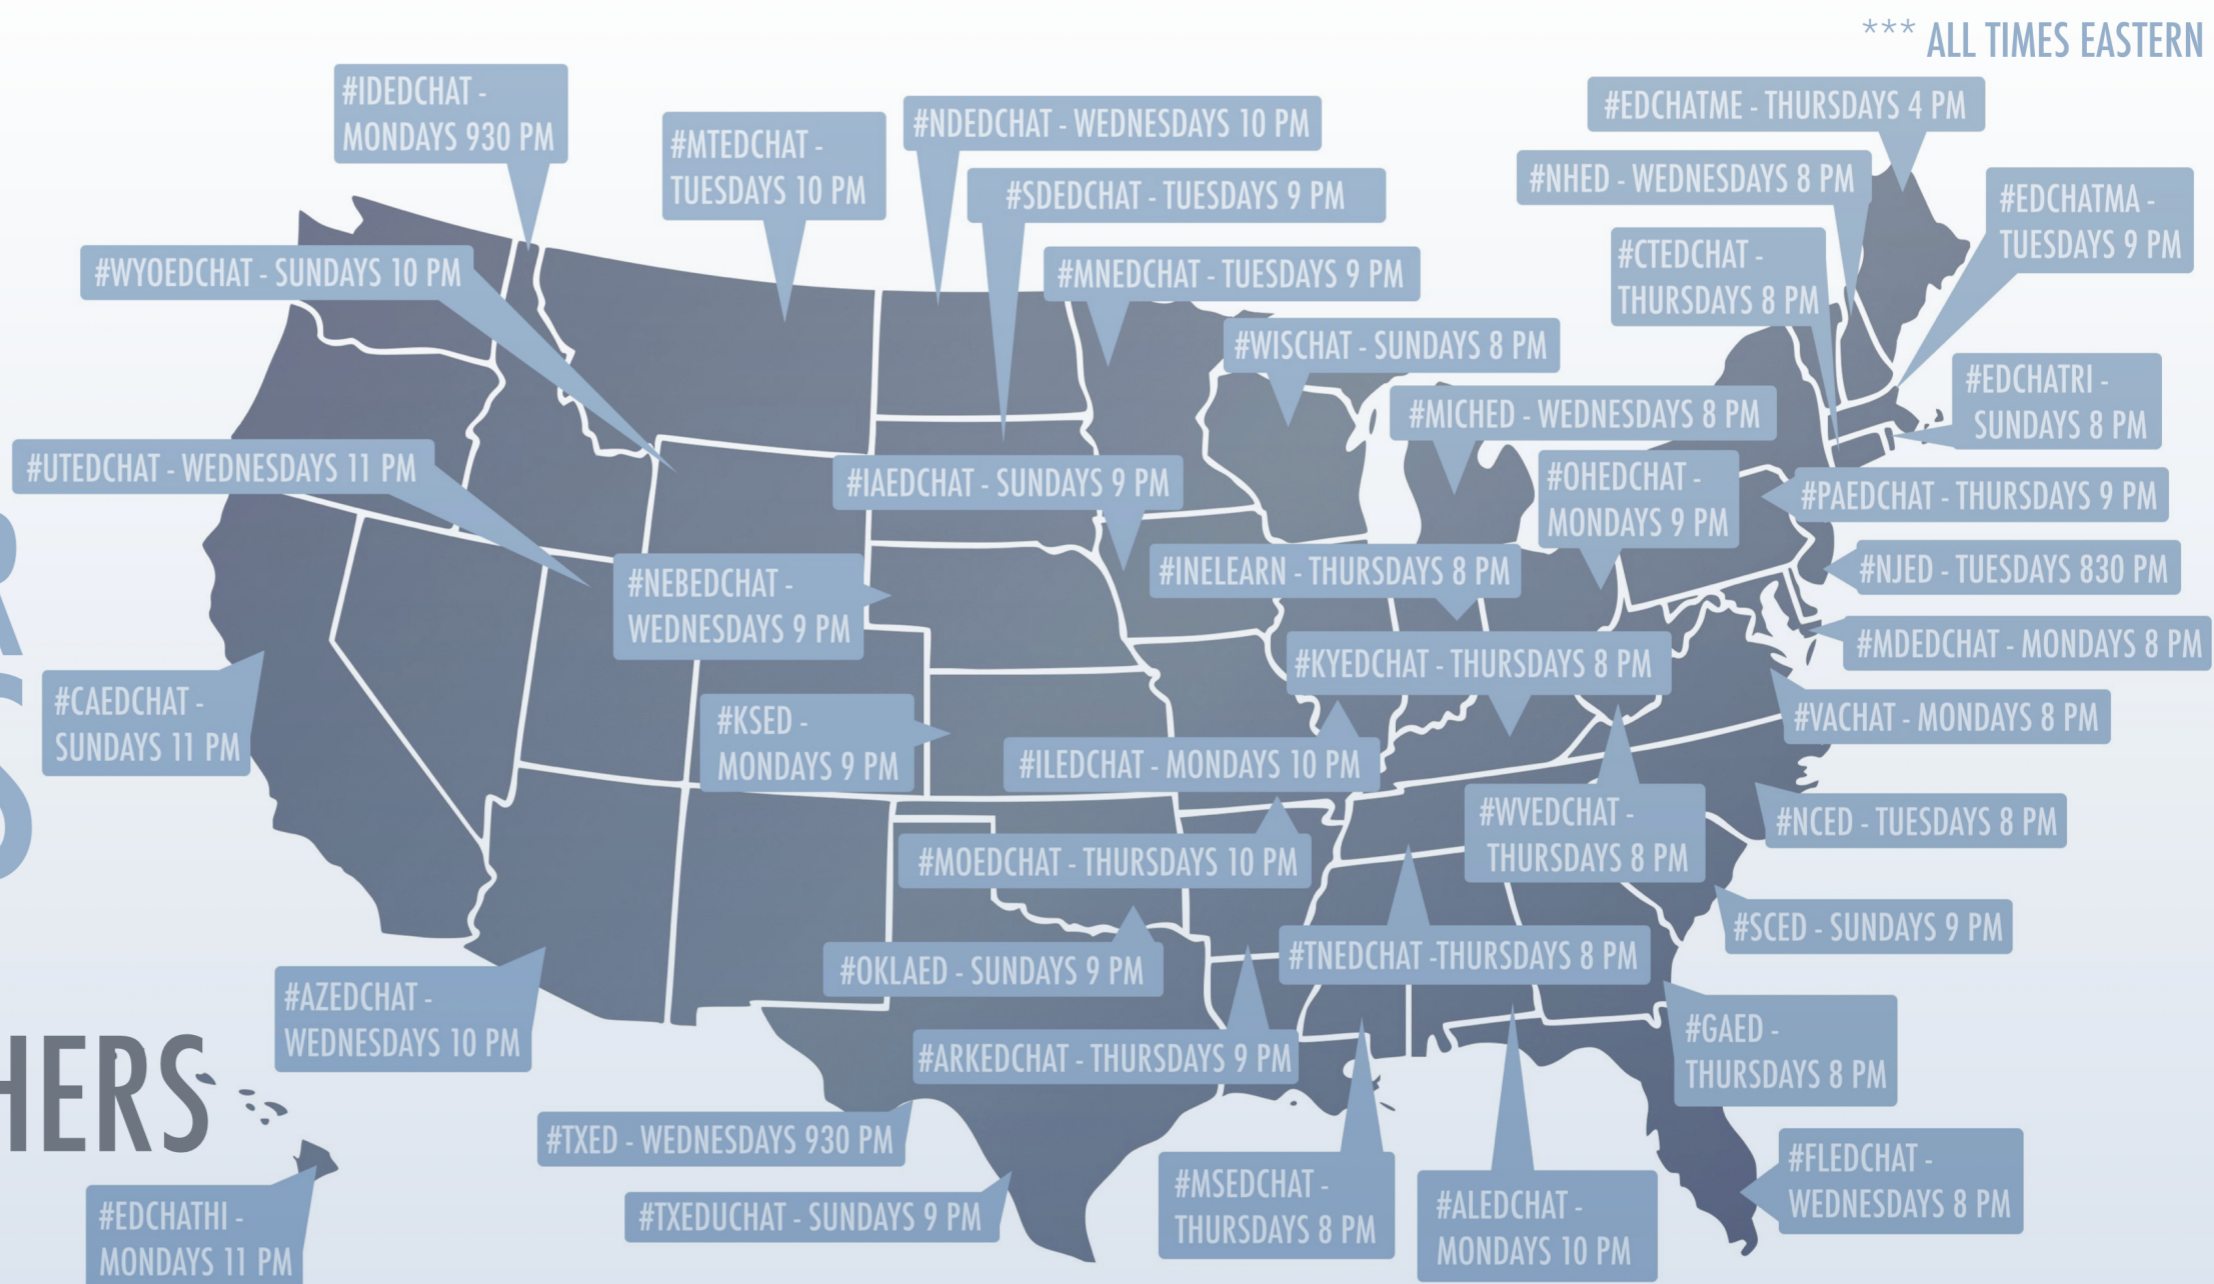

Jane refers to another account using the @ sign. This is clickable and will send people to the account @iPadWells
